

2.2 Get Started

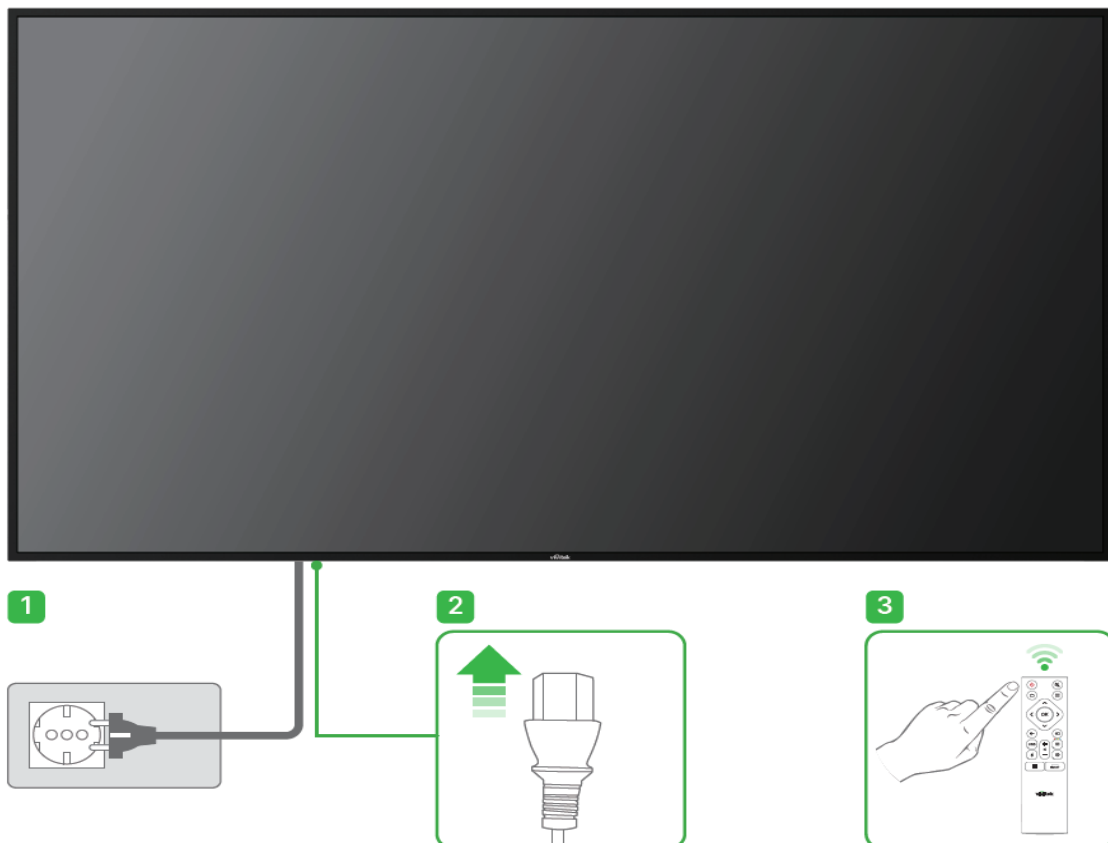

Powering the NovoDisplay

After mounting/installing the NovoDisplay in the desired location you must supply power to the display using the following steps:

1. Plug the supplied power cable into the display and a power source.
2. Press the power button on the display or the remote control to power on the display.

NOTE: Only use the power cable provided in the packaging with the display.

Remote Control

Switching Input Source

After making a video input connection, open the input source menu to select which input source to show on the display.

- Press the Source button on the remote control.

